Dear Parents and Carers,

I'm writing to share information from the Victorian Curriculum and Assessment Authority's Interim Chief Executive Officer, following the errors with this year's VCE exams:

The VCAA Executive have offered their unreserved apologies for the impact these errors have had on students, families, school staff and the broader community.

The have outlined the following process they will now follow to ensure each student is marked fairly.

When the marking of each examination is complete, the VCAA have advised they will use statistical analyses and additional student data to identify whether there is evidence that any student has gained an unfair advantage over other students. This is called the Anomalous Grade Process

Following this process, if questions are identified as providing any student with an unfair advantage, appropriate adjustments to student marks will be made. This includes invalidating questions and awarding all students full marks for that question, if necessary.

Please be assured that if students have accessed the published material on the sample examination covers, this will not be considered a breach of the rules.

The VCAA has published information including Q&As on their website, see: www.vcaa.vic.edu.au

For other questions or additional support, please speak to our VCE Coordinator.

Yours Sincerely,

Ms Tracey Kift
Principal
